Grin and Bear It

A Giant Panda Bear walks into a restaurant. He orders some food and eats it. Then he pulls out a pistol and shoots his waiter in the foot and starts for the door.

"Hey, you can't do that," shouts the manager. "You just shot my waiter! Where do you think you're going?"

"I'm a Giant Panda," the bear replied, indignantly. "Look it up."

When the Panda had left, the manager googled Giant Panda Bears. Sure enough, under Giant Panda Bears first thing to pop up said, "Furry mammal, lives in China. Eats shoots and leaves..."

It's A Stretch

A man went into his bank and withdrew $5000 in one hundred dollar bills. He wrapped the wad of bills with a rubber band and stuck them in his pocket,

After he had walked a block, he checked his pocket. To his dismay, the money was gone. He rushed back to the bank.

In his haste to enter the bank, he collided with an old man,

"Young man, have you lost some money tied with a rubber band?" asked the old man,

With great relief, the man said, "Yes, yes, I have!"

"Well," the old man said holding out his hand. "I found your rubber band."

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

* On Dec. 2, 1972, the Temptations earned the last of their four chart-topping hits when "Papa Was a Rollin' Stone" made it to No. 1 on the Billboard Hot 100. The group was inducted into the Rock & Roll Hall of Fame in 1989.

* On Dec. 3, 1984, an explosion at a Union Carbide pesticide plant in Bhopal, India, marked the worst industrial accident in history. At least 5,000 people died immediately, according to official estimates, while approximately 20,000 died over time and another half-million were injured when toxic gas enveloped the city.

* On Dec. 4, 1917, psychiatrist W.H.R. Rivers presented a report titled "The Repression of War Experience" to the Royal School of Medicine. The report was based on his work at the Craiglockhart War Hospital for Neurasthenic Officers, near Edinburgh, which was one of the most famous hospitals used to treat soldiers suffering psychological trauma after serving on the battlefield.

YOU WILL NEVER GLORY IN GOD UNTIL GOD HAS STOPPED YOU FROM GLORIFYING YOURSELF

* On Dec. 5, 1776, five students at Williamsburg, Virginia's College of William & Mary gathered at Raleigh's Tavern to found a new fraternity they called Phi Beta Kappa, which was intended to follow strictly American principles rather than those espoused by England or Germany and in which members engaged in the kind of fervent political debate characteristic of the school's student life.

* On Dec. 6, 1961, Syracuse running back Ernie Davis became the first African American player to win the Heisman Trophy, beating out Ohio State fullback Bob Ferguson. Earlier that day Davis had met John F. Kennedy at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel in New York, remarking that he'd "never thought I'd ever be shaking the hand of the president of the United States."

* On Dec. 7, 2001, the blockbuster remake of the 1960 film "Ocean's Eleven" opened in theaters. Directed by Steven Soderbergh, it spawned the profitable sequels "Ocean's Twelve" in 2004 and "Ocean's Thirteen" in 2007.

* On Dec. 8, 1942, Jeannette Rankin, a committed pacifist and the first woman elected to Congress, cast the sole congressional vote against America's declaration of war on Japan.

A Talking Cow

A guy was driving through the countryside when his car broke down. He got out to check the engine as an old black and white cow appeared by the fence.

"Looks like a carburetor problem to me"

The man was so startled that he ran to the nearby farmhouse and told the farmer what had happened,

"Was it an old black and white cow?" the farmer asked the man.

"Yes, yes, it was!" the man exclaimed excitedly.

"Oh, don't pay her no mind" said the farmer, "she don't know a thing about cars"

Yes, But Can He Jump Through Hoops?

A lawyer's dog jumped it's fence one day, ran to the local meat shoppe and stole a steak right in front of the butcher. He closed his shop and went to the lawyer's house.

"If a dog running unleashed steals a steak from my store, do I have the right to demand payment from the dog's owner?"

"Oh, yes," replied the lawyer.

"Well your dog was loose and stole a steak from my store. You owe me $25." Much to the butcher's surprise, the lawyer took out his check-book and wrote the man a check.

A week later, the butcher opened his mail to find a bill from the lawyer...a $200 dollar invoice for legal consultation.

A Howling Success

A young boy was practicing the violin at home. The sound made the dog howl loudly each time a string was plucked.

Meanwhile, his father was upstairs in his office trying to get some important work done.

After putting up with the racket of the violin and the dog howling for the better part of an hour he called down to his son.

"Can't you play something the dog DOESN'T know?"

Ain't It The Truth

A busload of politicians was speeding recklessly down a country road when it ran into a brick wall and landed upside down in the ditch. It was a horrible sight.

An old farmer saw the whole thing and immediately ran to the crash site. It took him a couple hours to dig a large hole and bury all the politicians.

It wasn't long after that when a sheriff drove by and saw the wreckage of the bus. The farmer explained everything.

"Were they ALL dead!?" asked the sheriff.

"Well," said the old farmer, "some of them said they weren't but you know them politicians lie..."

LEAD PAINT IN VETERAN HOUSING

It's one thing to send phony bills to the Department of Veterans Affairs or claim to be a small business -- and quite another to put veterans and their families in danger.

An abatement/mitigation company was nailed for saying it had done the work to clear the lead paint in housing units rented to veterans when it had not.

Being in an environment with lead-based paint can be extremely dangerous to everyone, especially to children. Whether it's from the dust or chipped paint, the damage can be permanent.

The homes in question, 42 in all, are set up as affordable units for veterans and their families. The work the company had agreed to do involved using special paint to cover lead-based paint.

This is serious stuff: The company was not certified, their employees were not certified, and they didn't apply the special paint correctly. Additionally, the company knew in advance that they wouldn't actually do the work properly.

The company, after their guilty plea, could face a fine of $500,000 plus restitution.

The story gets worse and worse. At that same location, a real estate agent didn't disclose to veterans that there was lead-based paint in the rental housing units.

The arrogance in this case is astounding. The agent claimed that the disclosure laws didn't apply because the property was built after 1978 -- while knowing that the properties were built in 1895 and 1905.

The problem with lead-based paints in the units came to a head when a toddler, after eating flaking paint chips, was tested and found to have very high blood lead levels and had to be treated.

In this case, the real estate agent faces up to 15 years in prison and a $250,000 fine.

If you live in a home built before 1978 and suspect you might have lead-based paint, get it tested. Avoid the at-home lead tests you can buy. Instead, have it done with X-ray fluorescence (XRF) or paint chip testing.
