Stone Cold

Two men, stumbling home after a Halloween party, decided to take a shortcut through the cemetery.

When they reached the middle, they heard a tap-tap-tap noise coming from the misty shadows.

Trembling with fear, they walked through the low fog to find an old man covered in ragged, decaying clothing. He was using a chisel to chip away at a headstone.

"We thought you were a ghost! What are you doing to that tombstone in the middle of the night?"

"My wife misspelled my name!"

That Sucks

A vampire bat came flapping in from the night covered in fresh blood and parked himself on the roof of the cave to get some sleep.

The other bats smelled the blood and began hassling him about where he got it. He told them to knock it off and let him get some sleep but they persisted until finally he gave in.

"OK, follow me," he said and flew out of the cave with hundreds of bats behind him. Down through a valley they went, across a river and into a forest full of trees.

Finally he slowed down and all the other bats excitedly milled around him. "Do you see that tree over there?" he asked.

"Yes, yes, yes!" the bats all screamed.

"Well," the bloodied bat said,

"I SURE DIDN'T!"

I DIDN'T KNOW THAT!

* Flamingos don't bend their legs at the knee - they bend at the ankle. What looks like their knee is actually their ankle. Their real knees are hidden under feathers closer to their bodies

* People in the 1840s thought that a big, possibly cheesy, smile was childish, so a photographer in London told people to keep their mouths shut by saying "prunes."

* In 1939, Hitler was nominated for the Noble Peace Prize. It was not a 'real' nomination as it was meant it to be ironic and it was later taken back. Even more ironic, Hitler had forbidden Germans from taking the awards four years before his own name was put in the hat.

* In the 1930s, the first 3 Musketeers bars came in packs of three. Each pack had a different nougat flavor, such as vanilla, chocolate, or strawberry. Costs were too high for that triple threat during World War II, so the company cut it down to one

* Pumpkin regattas are a thing. Some towns host races where people hollow out giant pumpkins and paddle them like boats across lakes

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

* On Nov. 3, 1883, California bandit and stagecoach robber Black Bart, born Charles E. Boles and famous for his daring as well as his habit of occasionally leaving short poems at the scenes of his crimes, held up his last stagecoach. While he initially made a quick getaway, he was done in by the handkerchief with a laundry mark he'd inadvertently dropped and spent four years in San Quentin prison.

* On Nov. 5, 2024, former President Donald Trump was elected to a second term in office, becoming the first president to serve nonconsecutive terms since 1892

* On Nov. 4, 1928, Arnold Rothstein, a legendary New York gambler with a fortune estimated at about $50 million, was shot during a poker game at Manhattan's Park Central Hotel. He died in the hospital two days later without revealing the name of his assassin, though the fellow gambler who'd invited him to the game was tried for the crime, and acquitted.

WE ALL COME TO PLACES IN OUR LIVES WHEN THERE IS NO ACCEPTABLE SOLUTION APART FROM GOD

* On Nov. 8, 1970, Tom Dempsey, a professional football kicker, though he was born with no toes on his right foot, launched a 63-yard field goal in his custom shoe and set a new NFL record, beating the previous record by seven yards.

* On Nov. 6, 1977, the Toccoa Falls Dam in Georgia collapsed just hours after a volunteer fireman inspected it and found everything in order, with 39 people dying in the resulting flood.

* On Nov. 7, 1943, Roberta Joan Anderson, now known to the world as Joni Mitchell and dubbed the greatest female guitarist of all time by Rolling Stone magazine, was born in Fort MacLeod, Alberta, Canada. She cemented her status in the music world as a composer rather than performer, with David Geffen of Geffen Records noting in 1994 that, "Even though we lost money on every one of her records, we always treated Joni as one of the most important artists in the world."

* On Nov. 9, 1956, French philosopher and author Jean-Paul Sartre, a long-time admirer of the Soviet Union, denounced both the USSR and its communist system following the Soviet invasion of Hungary.

AI in Everyday Life: How Artificial Intelligence is Quietly Making Your World Better

Artificial intelligence (AI) is no longer a futuristic dream. It's here, it's everywhere, and it's woven into the routines of everyday people. You may not see it, but AI is working behind the scenes—from the moment you wake up to the moment you go to bed—making life easier, safer, and more personalized.

When your smartphone suggests the best route to work based on current traffic, that's AI. When your virtual assistant plays your favorite news briefing or turns on the kitchen lights with a voice command, that's AI. Even the alarm that woke you up may have used machine learning to determine the most natural time to wake you during a light phase of sleep.

Fitness trackers and smartwatches collect data as you move through your morning routine. They analyze your steps, heart rate, and sleep quality,

Make Money On Purpose

"AI Developments, Part 2" with Mike Lamb

then provide recommendations to improve your health. That connection between data and insights—powered by AI—is transforming personal wellness.

At Work: AI tools have become our digital teammates. From email spam filters to predictive text, AI reduces distractions and speeds up communication. Voice-to-text apps let you dictate messages while driving. Calendar apps can automatically schedule meetings at the most convenient times for everyone. Customer service chatbots help resolve common issues instantly, increasing satisfaction and freeing human employees to focus on higher-value work.

Creative professionals rely on AI design assistants to brainstorm layouts or choose eye-pleasing color combinations. Marketers use AI to understand customer behavior and tailor campaigns. Analysts use machine learning to spot trends and make smarter business decisions. No matter your job, AI can support your work, reduce busywork, and increase efficiency.

At Home: As soon as you walk through your front door, AI is hard at work again. Smart thermostats learn your temperature preferences and adjust automatically to save money. Robotic vacuums memorize the layout of your home and clean while you relax. AI-powered security systems can recognize familiar faces and send alerts when something unusual happens.

And this is only the beginning. Next time: How you can interact with AI to make your life easier.

VETERANS ★ POST ★

by Freddy Groves

CLAIMS ERROR RATE: 61%

It's one thing to have a medical condition that neatly slots into the VA's presumptive chart of toxic exposure-related illnesses. If you served at a location at a certain time, your illness is presumed to have been caused by that service under TERA, a toxic exposure risk activity. As the list of presumptives grows (courtesy of the PACT Act), so do the number of veterans who qualify automatically. Disability benefits soon follow -- if all goes well. But what if you were there, at a certain time, and your toxic exposure illness isn't on the list?

In 2022 when the PACT Act added so many presumptives, veterans submitted their claims, the how-to claims manual increased in size and things became complicated. For one thing, those veterans without a presumptive (listed) illness were required to get a medical exam and a medical opinion. The claims people had to do extra work and request the specific exam as well as the opinion to verify that the veteran did have that illness, and that the exposure did indeed cause that illness. And there the problems began with the denial of claims.

The VA's Office of Inspector General stepped in and conducted a very long review to investigate whether processors handled those denials correctly. The results of that investigation showed that 61% of denials for nonpresumptive TERA-related claims had processing errors. In some cases, there was no request for a medical exam and opinion. In other cases there was no research into whether the veteran participated in a toxic exposure activity.

It's not surprising so many mistakes were made. Besides the standard 82-page how-to manual, processors needed to wade through eight policy documents, nine general information documents and 94 webpages of frequently asked questions. The OIG's recommendations, if followed by the VA, should ease the difficulties in accurately processing the exposure claims. We can only hope they're listening.

Veterans, if you believe your illness was caused by toxic exposure, insist on a TERA exam and medical opinion to bolster your claim.
